How Your Social Media Profile Could Make Or Break Your Next Job Opportunity

My husband and I have trained our three daughters on the importance of posting only appropriate information on any type of social media. This includes not posting Certain pictures of Saturday night's party on Facebook and not posting or Tweeting anything when they're angry or in a bad mood. Now, managing your social media profile could make or break your chances of being hired.

According to the 2012 annual technology market survey conducted by Eurocom Worldwide, "Almost one in five technology industry executives say that a candidate's social media profile has caused them not to hire that person." Previous Eurocom Worldwide surveys had found almost 40% of the survey respondents from technology companies review job candidate's profiles on social media sites.

The 8 Signs That You Have an Extraordinary Boss

The best managers have a fundamentally different understanding of workplace, company, and team dynamics. See what they get right.

A few years back, I interviewed some of the most successful CEOs in the world in order to discover their management secrets. I learned that the "best of the best" tend to share the following eight core beliefs.

"Integrity is exhibited in actions, not pronouncements of intentions."

~Lorin Woolfe

"The greatest danger for most of us is not that our aim is too high and we miss it, but that it is too low and we reach it."

~Michelangelo

"People who enjoy meetings should not be in charge of anything."

~Thomas Sowell
